

It is vitally important that data remains equal and neutral with respect to price and priority. Allowing cable companies to put a price on certain data or otherwise prioritize certain kinds of data over others will stifle innovation and is a potentially a threat to every citizens individual freedom. Consider the fate of Skype, Google, Facebook, Netflix, Amazon, Youtube, Twitter, etc... if cable companies had set the initial rules of engagement. The internet should be considered a public utility.